

Antal International is a leading international recruitment solutions business delivering innovative, timely and cost effective recruitment solutions on a global scale, locally.

Our core foundation

With 130+ offices in 30+ countries, established in the early 1990's to service a gap in the market and the trend of globalisation, Antal's International Network has assisted numerous clients in over 75 countries.

The new millennium has seen Antal's services become the solution in demand by clients from SME level to Fortune 500 corporations who seek a knowledgeable and professional business partner with scale and global reach.

Due to our scale and reach, we are equally able to deliver on one-off projects, or cater for your large-scale recruitment needs.

We believe that people always play the most important role in the business growth. We would like to employ our expertise to support your company in HR planning.

OUR MISSION is to support our clients' strategy implementation and accompany their growth.

About Us

Our office is located near Paris, which focuses exclusively on talent search in the Chemical-Composites industry (Petro/Fine/Bio-chemicals).

Different from other recruitment agencies, our consultants have strong backgrounds in industry, with rich experiences as Director Commercial, Product Manager, R&D chemist etc. Our goal is to save your time and money, only focusing on an effective search to provide high quality profiles to support our client to achieve the business success.

With a strong connection of industry, we have an effective talent pool for the chemical sector.

With a good understanding of the industry, we provide our clients the service that corresponds well to their needs and fit their organization.

Moreover, as a global recruiting company with a network all over the world, we could work as your business partner worldwide to provide our service.

If you are a small-medium size or global company from chemical sectors (Intermediate/Basic chemicals, speciality chemicals, consumer/commodities chemicals) and wish to discover how to:

- Fill roles that are critical to your business
- Uncover talents who are not visible on the market, but are open to a new opportunity
- Save time – Less time to educate 2-3 recruiters on searching profiles your company are looking for, thus focus on your field of expertise
- Benefit from a relationship that allows you to focus on speed, quality, thoroughness and results
- Avoid wasting your time interviewing wrong candidates and only interviewing the ones who will significantly contribute to success

“We work successfully with Antal Paris for France but also worldwide. They are able to find the right profiles for key jobs understanding perfectly our needs. Jane and Arnaud are very professional, knowledgeable about chemical market, supportive, reactive and also promote our image / branding”
